Examples From Outside Texas

- North Carolina Coastal Plains Paddle Trails Initiative : The State of North Carolina Paddling Survey by Jack Thigpen Publication #: UNC-SG-01-06 Price: free Pages: 81 summarizes the economic impact of paddling activities along the state's coast. Categories: Coastal, Marine Education, Wildlife & Nature in length from 1.25 miles to 6.8 miles. http://www.tpwd.state.tx.us/fishboat/boat/paddlingtrails/coastal/lighthouse_lakes/
- The South Bay Paddling Trail: The trail follows the shores of South Bay in a loop of about eight miles. This pristine, shallow, subtropical body of water consists of approximately 3,500 surface acres, bounded on the south by the riparian edge of the Rio Grande http://www.tpwd.state.tx.us/fishboat/boat/paddlingtrails/coastal/south_bay/
- Christmas Bay Paddling Trail: It is a 19.1-mile circumnavigation of this pristine minor bay on the western end of the Galveston Bay complex. Easily accessible from the Houston metropolitan area, the Christmas Bay Paddling Trail offers popular, shorter loops of 3.8 and 10.3 miles with outstanding coastal angling and bird watching opportunities. http://www.tpwd.state.tx.us/fishboat/boat/paddlingtrails/coastal/christmas_bay
- Galveston Island State Park Paddling Trail: As the name implies the trail is found in waters that surround Galveston Island State Park. Because most of trails are protected by breakwater, the water is normally calm and makes for excellent paddling. The trail was established in cooperation with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. It is maintained in partnership with the Friends of Galveston Island State Park. For more information on the paddling trails contact a member of our Friends group at (409) 737-5567 <http://www.tpwd.state.tx.us/fishboat/boat/paddlingtrails/coastal/galveston/>

Miscellaneous Websites and Publications

- Paddlers' Trail history and Use: Lake Champlain committee
The vision for the Lake Champlain Paddlers' Trail began to take shape in the early 1990's. Kevin Rose, expert paddler and founder of the Champlain Kayak Club, formally conceived the idea of a Water Trail on Lake Champlain. The Lake Champlain Committee embraced the idea as a way to provide a permanent corridor on the Lake for low-impact recreational use
