Outdoor Backpacks

Kitty Kat is going on a weekend hiking trip this spring. She will need a backpack that is waterproof and big enough to hold all her gear. Kitty Kat wants a backpack that has padded straps/belts and good support. It would be beneficial if the backpack was light weight. She only has $200 to spend.

The Osprey Atmos 65 AG Pack is a hiking pack for week-long and thru-hiking adventures into the backcountry. The Atmos 65 has stepped it up and added the AG, which means Anti-Gravity™ and it's all about the suspension, harness, and hipbelt. The LightWire™ frame, suspended mesh, and die cut foam all combine to wrap the body closely so you can hike on by without hardly realizing the weight upon your back. All that AND it is ventilated? Count me in. From there the pack is fully loaded with features you can't live without, compression straps, removable top lid, Stow-On-The-Go™ for those that only want to use their trekking poles half the time. The lower section separates your bag from everything else, with a direct-access zipper at the bottom.

Features:

- Adjustable Harness
- Compression Straps
- Dual zippered front panel pockets
- Fit-on-the-fly hip belt
- Flap jacket
- Internal compression & reservoir sleeve
- Removable floating top lid
