

Institute of Wilderness Studies Intern
Pine Cove Camps
Fall 2018 - Spring 2019

Pine Cove is seeking 16 ministry-minded individuals to serve as IWS Interns. The primary aim as an IWS Intern during the months of mid-August through early May is to provide a dynamic, professional, biblically relevant environmental studies curriculum for private and public educational institutions. The Instructor must see this job as a ministry that reflects on the name of Jesus Christ. Consequently, the Intern must be committed to excellence and integrity in all aspects of the many roles it may require.

While in this program, IWS Interns will practice gospel action and communication, learn to live in community, develop leadership skills, and gain experience in both teaching and full-time camping. Interns will teach classes, lead and facilitate program, build relationships with guests on property, and help maintain and run an effective and fun outdoor education program.

This is a full-time seasonal position located in Tyler, TX.

Pine Cove IWS has two internship opportunities:

- Fall (August 18 - December 14)
- Fall & Spring (August 18 - May 4)

Room and board included. This is a paid internship - contact us for details.
