WHARTON COUNTY EXTENSION EDUCATION ASSOCIATION SCHOLARSHIP PROGRAM

The Wharton County Extension Education Association is an affiliated club of the Texas Extension Education Association. The mission of the Texas Extension Education Association is to work with the Texas A&M AgriLife Extension Service to strengthen and enrich families through educational programs, leadership development, and community service.

The Wharton County Extension Education Association decided in 1985 to show its support of the Wharton County 4-H Program by presenting a $400 scholarship to an outstanding 4-H member. Applicants are judged on their 4-H participation, academic achievement, citizenship, leadership and experiences in school, church and community. They must be seniors in one of five county high schools or home schooled in Wharton County. They must have been active members of 4-H for at least four years and must be in the top 50 percent of their graduating class at the beginning of the second semester of their senior year.

An additional scholarship was added in 1997 for senior high school students whose mothers or grandmothers are active members of a Wharton County Extension Education club. In 2019, the Wharton County EEA Scholarship was updated to include applicants attending any school or homeschool in the state of Texas and whose mothers or grandmothers are members of a Wharton County Extension Education club. Applicants must be high school seniors, registered and attending a high school or homeschooled in the state of Texas. They must have been in the top 50 percent of their graduating class at the beginning of the second semester of their senior year.
